Before a crowd of over 700, Antioch won its seventh straight victory Sunday. The Chicago Hartford Giants, a colored team, were their opponents, and while the Giants are a classy bunch of ball players they were no match for the heavy hitting local team and the wonderful pitching displayed by Bob Wilton.

Wilton started the game by fanning the first three men to face him, but Antioch was unable to do anything in their half of the first, and the second was another scoreless inning and the fans settled back to what looked like a pitchers battle with Wilton in the lead.

The game broke in the third when E. Hook placed a single back of second, later scoring on G. Fiala's sacrifice. From that time on the home team started to pile them up, closing the game in a 16 to 2 score.

L. Fiala made the feature play of the game when he went deep into right field for a fly, getting the ball over his shoulder with one hand, with two men on bases, for the third out.

Hooker, the fast left fielder for the Giants, stabbed a hot line drive with one hand, bringing the crowd to its feet.

Wilton, the pitcher starting for the Giants, was going along in fine shape, but the series of errors made by the team mates evidently took the heart out of him and he was forced to retire in favor of Lonzo, who also was forced out on account of his inability to locate the plate, hitting three Antioch men in one inning, Washington relieving him.

One of the outstanding features of the game was the fielding and batting of Davison. This new recruit is probably the easiest fielding man seen on the local diamond for some time, and twice, with a man on third, he laid down a beautiful sacrifice toward first base, scoring his man each time and getting on once himself.

The colored boys score their two runs in the seventh inning after Wilton had eased up a bit.

Rev. A. D. Kolkebeck at St. Ignatius

Next Sunday is Trinity Sunday and the services are as usual at St. Ignatius' church. Trinity Sunday is a feast of great importance and every one should be present. Church school at 8:45 and morning prayer and address at 10 a. m. Choir practice on Saturday afternoon at 4:30.

There will be a meeting of the finance committee this week at 7:30 on Friday evening.

The Rev. A. D. Kolkebeck will be ordained to the priesthood on Trinity Sunday at St. Mary's church, Park Ridge, Ill. This is a most important occasion because at this time two deacons and two priests will be ordained by a bishop of Chicago.

On Monday next, June 11, and St. Barnabas day, the newly ordained priest, Father Kolkebeck, will perform his first priestly act in St. Ignatius' church, Antioch. This will be his first celebration of the holy communion. Those of his friends who cannot be present at his ordination can be present at his first celebration of the holy communion and can have a chance to congratulate him at that time.

Addie Schafer Rescued After 4 Days of Illness

Miss Addie Schafer was found in the rear of her millinery shop in an unconscious condition last Thursday evening, as the result of an attack of paralysis.

A close friend of Miss Schafer's, who lives opposite her millinery shop, noticed Miss Schafer had not been at her shop since the previous Saturday, and started out to investigate. Miss Schafer often took short trips to Burlington, her former home, but as her niece from the latter city had made two visits to Antioch, and failing to find Miss Schafer, aroused the interest of her neighbor. The screen door of the shop was hooked on the inside, so a visit to the rear door was made and the rear screen was also hooked on the inside. Thinking Miss Schafer must be in the shop, Charles Powles, who conducts a meat market in the same building, was called to investigate. With the help of Constable Stanley Thompson, a rear window was opened. After calling several times Miss Schafer finally answered, "I'll be there in a minute." After waiting some ten or fifteen minutes, a flashlight was thrown on the room and revealed Miss Schafer lying in a prostrate condition on the floor. She had prepared to retire, but the bed had not been disturbed, and it is thought that Miss Schafer had been lying on the floor, where she had been found, for four days.

After being attended to by a local physician, her niece at Burlington was notified, and she was removed to the hospital in Kenosha.

George H. Wilbur, Pioneer Lumber Man, Is Dead

George H. Wilbur, one of the best known lumbermen in the middle west who achieved his early success in Burlington, died at his home in Waukesha last week. He was stricken with heart trouble and declined gradually until the end.

Mr. Wilbur was born in 1839 at Unadilla Forks, New York, and came to Wisconsin in 1853, settling at Beloit. About 1872 he went to Burlington and established a lumber yard. He was successful from the start, later incorporating as the Wilbur Lumber Co., which kept expanding until at present it has eighteen yards in Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana. Mr. Wilbur was president and treasurer of the company, retaining an active interest in the concern in spite of his advanced age. In 1892 he moved to Waukesha and for thirty years made daily trips from that city to the main office of the company in Milwaukee.

His three sons have been associated with him in the lumber business. Rosier is vice president of the company, Ray is manager of the Milwaukee office, and Hawley is manager of the Waukesha branch. One daughter, Mrs. Edith Copeland, Milwaukee, and the widow, Mrs. Martha O'Neill Wilbur, also survive. A brother, Fred, lives at Grayslake, Ill.

Funeral services were held from his late home, Rev. A. G. Grey officiating, and his remains were taken to the Burlington cemetery for burial. Six branch managers acted as pallbearers: L. H. Taggart, Lake Geneva; James Harger, Waterloo; Charles Stafford, West Allis; Walter S. Keeler, Burlington; A. J. Noxell, Lowell, Ind.; and H. H. Harris, Dixon, Ill.

Somerville Building Ready for Business Next Week

Somerville's bakery will open for business in their new building on Saturday, June 17. Somerville's bakery opened twenty years ago last February in the old Wilton block. In 1904 they moved into the Sibley block where they have been operating ever since.

Besides a complete line of bakery goods, it is the intention of Somerville to operate an up-to-date restaurant, there being eighteen tables in the dining room.

The building is brown pressed brick with a beautiful electric-lighted canopy extending over the entire sidewalk. The interior is decorated throughout in white, which adds a very pleasing appearance to the place.

On opening day there will be souvenirs for everyone.

"Star Witness" of State Testimony Aid to Governor

The prosecution's case against Governor Small is closing in an anti-climax this week and will probably be concluded before the next week end comes.

The climax came Thursday of last week with the calling to the stand of State Treasurer Edward E. Miller. Here was the man who for nearly twelve months had been heralded as the "star witness" of the state; the man whose testimony would undoubtedly "convict" Governor Small.

But Mr. Miller's testimony was not a "Big Bertha" for the state; it was only a "dud." It in no way "convicted" the governor; it did not even point the finger of suspicion in his direction.

As a matter of fact Mr. Miller proved as good a witness for the defense probably, as any it will call to the stand. Here is the comment of Joe D. Salkeld in The Chicago Daily Journal, a paper which at least has not been over zealous in its support of the governor:

"Mr. Miller's testimony failed to produce promised sensations. Mr. Miller was on the witness stand one hour and twenty-five minutes. He was questioned one hour and twelve minutes on direct examination and the cross examination took just thirteen minutes. The failure of the state fell like a wet blanket on the spectators in the court room."

The prosecution had expected to prove by Mr. Miller that Governor Small had conspired with State Treasurer Sterling, and Vernon and the late E. C. Curtis to defraud the state.

But this is what Mr. Miller testified to, in substance, that he had received every penny of the various amounts certified to officially by State Auditor Russell (Save a small amount on deposit in a bank which had gone into the hands of a receiver) as being due him from Mr. Sterling, with approved collateral for every cent, and that he had liquidated the collateral and collected from his predecessor every penny that the state auditor officially certified was due the state.

States Attorney Mortimer, directing the examination of Mr. Miller failed to shake his story in the slightest degree, or to bring out any suggestion of any irregularities on the part of Gov. Small.

And when Chief Counsel Charles C. LeForge, for the governor, quietly took Mr. Miller over the transactions of the transfer of the office from Sterling to Miller, revealing the fact that the state had received every cent due it, and rested his cross examination in thirteen minutes the prosecutors looked around crest fallen for a few minutes, and then went into consultation. It was rumored that they would try again to break down the Miller story, but they finally decided to take no more chances with the East St. Louisan.

The important points of Mr. LeForge's cross examination of the state treasurer were as follows:

"When those papers were turned over to you, you then had in your possession all of the securities which are mentioned and described in this report here, amounting to $10,052,000, in the various banks and other institutions in Illinois."

All was delivered.

"You figured it wrong," said Mr. Miller. "There was $20,500,000, $10,000,000 and $10,500,000."

But you had that item in your possession?"

"I had in my possession then everything I was to get."

"And with the delivery of the $10,000,000, which you have described to the jury, represented by packers' notes and other securities, you then had in your possession approximately $20,052,000, didn't you?"

"Yes, whatever that paper shows."

"That sum of money, together with the deposits which you had on hand and the bonds and coupons paid since January 1, made a total amount which was submitted to you at that time of $22,912,582.74?"

"It did," replied Mr. Miller, "with the exception of the $15,000 from the Dixon Bank."

Piano Recital at Grade School

The piano pupils of Miss F. E. McLaughlin will be heard at the Antioch grade school in a recital Friday evening, June 9, at 8 o'clock.

Nineteen Suits of Clothes Stolen from Peterson the Tailor

The Peterson tailor shop was visited by thieves last Friday evening or early Saturday morning. Entrance was gained by breaking a rear window and before leaving they ransacked the entire place, making away with nineteen suits of clothes. In some instances the coat and vest of certain suits were not taken, while the pants of other suits were left behind.

Several clothes hangers were found the next morning in the rear of the Crystal theatre.

Mr. Peterson carried no insurance and is offering a reward of $50 for the return of the "mix-up" suits, and no questions will be asked.

Plan to Make Chicago Center of Aviation Industry

Plans for the greatest aviation meet and air congress in the history of the world as an outstanding feature of the second annual Pageant of Progress exposition to be held on Chicago's municipal pier July 29 to August 14 are being perfected by a group of Chicago business men who are interested in seeing this city become the center of the aviation industry.

Every community in the country which has shown an interest in the aviation and every flyer will be invited to participate and prizes will be offered to attract flyers to take part.

While the particular interest of the Pageant of Progress officials is to stage a meet that will entertain the thousands of visitors to the exposition and demonstrate the progress in this industry that is expected to outdo the great automobile business in magnitude and outdistance it in the hope of the business men who are backing it to attract aircraft manufacturers to this city, making Chicago to the airplane what Detroit is to the automobile.

Special stress will be laid upon the safety with which flying is now accomplished. Establishment of regular air lines between Chicago and New York, Chicago and San Francisco, New York, Chicago and London and between other large centers is declared by experts to be the aeronautical world to be close at hand. The Pageant of Progress regatta is expected to bring them still nearer.

An idea of the magnitude of the task ahead of the committee, which is headed by Charles L. Riemann, is gained when it is recalled that $270,000 was paid out at the flying meet held on the lake front here in 1911. At that time the airplane was just beginning to gain recognition. People still stopped to stare long in the sky when they heard the roar of the propellers. Aviators were paid $2 per minute for each minute they were in the air and prizes running as high as $14,000 were awarded for a single flyer.

An interesting feature of the regatta will be the presence here of all the "aces" of the world war who can be induced to attend. Two of the notable flyers certain to be present are Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, America's foremost ace, and Maj. Red Landis, whose heroic exploits in France were hardly second to those of Rickenbacker.

Gen. Patrick of the army air service, Read Admiral Moffet of the navy, and Col. Paul Henderson of the United States mail air service, will be present to deliver addresses at the air congress, and manufacturers of aircraft and leaders of all aere organizations in the country will be invited.

Ahnen-Moran Wedding

A wedding of unusual interest to Wilmet people occurred at 6 a. m. Saturday morning at the St. James' church, Kenosha, with Rev. R. J. Smith officiating, when Margaret M. Ahnen became the bride of Ambrose Moran, formerly of this village. They were attended by Florence Goergan and Earl Krumpke. A breakfast was served at the bride's parents home following the ceremony and then the young couple motored to Wilmet. Monday they left for Janesville and Green Bay, the former home of the bride.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ahnen and was born and educated at Green Bay, but has been a resident of Kenosha for the past five years, where she has made numerous friends. The groom is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Moran, of Wilmet, where he is well and favorably known as he is a graduate of the U. F. H. school.

20 Years Ago in Antioch

Thursday, June 12, 1902

The event of the week was a bachelor picnic given by Messrs. R. J. McDougall and James Kaye on Monday last, at the club house of the former at Grass Lake the following friends of the "two bachelors" being present: Jas. Britton, Abe Crowley and brother, J. J. Morley, E. C. Sahin, J. B. Burnett, A. D. Webb, Joseph Savage, J. G. Rinear, J. J. Burke, Tom Lynch, T. A. Emmons, Robert Selter and M. S. Miller. About one o'clock dinner was served.

A. G. Watson was transacting business in Chicago Monday.

John Burke and John Welch were transacting legal business at the county seat Saturday.

J. C. James has been repainting his residence which adds greatly to the beauty of its appearance.

L. M. Haynes was a Chicago passenger Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Mary Morley was a Chicago visitor for a few days the forepart of the week.

The Antioch Driving Park association announces that they will have races at the park on July 4. Bills and full particulars will appear next week.

The plans of the builders of the electric road being laid from Lake Bluff to Libertyville were yesterday suddenly changed for instead of continuing grading for a single track, the original plan, the graders started scraping for double tracks. Accordingly a double track is to be laid at once between the two towns. There is no longer any possible doubt that within a few months Waukegan will have electric road connections with Elgin and Fox Lake.

Auto Turns Turtle to Avoid Smashup; Occupants Unhurt

Trying to avoid a machine that was passing him, Ralph James eloped on the breaks of his car and turned the same upside down on the sandy road on Gifford's hill at Chappel Lake, Sunday.

James and his cousin, Belle Wilson, were in the car when another car going the same direction passed him and cut him off with a sharp turn. In order to avoid a smashup, James swung over and applied the brakes. The sandy condition of the road made the car turn turtle. While going over young James pushed his cousin out of the car to safety, going over the embankment with the car. Neither James or his cousin were injured, excepting for a slight bruise on James' leg. After getting the machine upright again, James said the car never ran any better in its long-lived career.

Wm. Fisher in Auto

Accident Monday Night

William Fisher, of Lake Villa, met with an accident when the steering wheel of his machine broke on the Loon Lake road to Hickory Monday evening. His machine turned upside down, pinning Fisher under the seat. He was released by several passing farmers and a hurried call sent for a local physician. It was reported that several ribs were broken. Fisher was taken to his home.

ANTIOCH ROAD PAVING BIDS OPEN JUNE 19

Frank King and Herbert Vos Make Trip to Springfield Thursday

WILL PAVE TO STATE LINE

Notices for bids on the Antioch section of route 21 will appear in the papers today, Thursday, June 8, and bids will be opened simultaneously in Antioch and Springfield, Monday, June 19, and after a consultation of village representatives and the highway officials at Springfield the successful bidder will be announced.

This announcement comes after a very discouraging report coming from Springfield that this section of the road had been included in 350 miles of roads in Illinois turned over to Federal project, meaning an indefinite delay.

Mr. King, the village president, and Herb Vos, one of the trustees, acting on their own initiative, made a trip to Waukegan Thursday and were fortunate in securing a short conference with the governor, who informed them that he had not been apprised of the latest move of the highway department in including this section in the federal aid project.

He favored the suggestion, that these two representatives make the trip to Springfield and personally lay their case before Mr. Sheets, state superintendent of highways. Mr. King and Mr. Vos left for Springfield Thursday night and fortunately secured a hearing with Mr. Sheets at 8:30 Friday morning. He gave the representatives a hearing and listened to all their arguments. After inquiring from his assistants on a few details in regard to this section of the road Mr. Sheets informed Mr. King and Mr. Vos that he would immediately get in touch with Col. Miller and would see what he could do for them.

On their second return to Mr. Sheets' office Friday at 2 o'clock Mr. Sheets greeted the two local men with the good news that everything had been fixed and that they were ready to go ahead and advertise the bids for the road when the village was.

Mr. King and Mr. Vos were also successful in having the half mile section north of town to the state line included in the letting, completing the road to the state line. This would have been left out in the original letting if it had not been brought up and the kind consideration of the highway department in including this little stretch in this section is greatly appreciated.

The action of these two local men in sacrificing business interests and expenditure of money in an attempt to avert what looked like a lost cause is highly appreciated by the citizens of the village and neighboring sections, and too much praise cannot be given them in the success.

More Renters Than Owners Occupy Township Farms

In a report issued by the town assessor, H. Gelstrup, it was reported there are 127 farms in the township, 62 of which are occupied by their owners and 65 of which are rented.

The land is occupied as follows:
2425 acres in corn.
1735 acres in oats.
430 acres in wheat.
400 acres in barley.
60 acres in rye.
190 acres in timothy.
325 acres in clover.
995 acres in mixed hay.
1115 acres in alfalfa.
400 acres in wild hay.
90 acres in potatoes.

There are 82 silos in the district, 1600 head of cattle, 180 brood sows, 5000 horses and 400 sheep. There are 8500 hens and 2000 apple trees. The land is valued at $1,081,430, an increase of $37,425 over the valuation set in 1921.

"I couldn't believe all they said about Tanlac until I tried it myself, and now I never doubt what I read about it," said Mrs. Anna B. Crawford, 2500 N. 23rd St., Lincoln, Neb., wife of a well-known retired business man.

"I got into a badly run-down condition," she continued, "and suffered greatly from indigestion. I had headache for days at a time, slept poorly and woke up mornings so weak and dizzy I could hardly get up. Then rheumatism set in and made walking difficult and I could scarcely use my arms for the pain.

COULD HARDLY
STAND AT TIMESHips, Back and Legs Would Have That Tired Ache

Everett, Washington.—"For several years I have had trouble with the lower part of my back and my hips and my legs would ache with the tired ache. I could hardly stand on my feet at times. I was always able to do my work although I did not feel good. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound advertised and having heard several praise it I decided to try it. I feel first-rate at the present time. It has done wonders for me and I keep it in the house right along. I always recommend it to others who are sick and ailing."

—Mrs. J. M. SHERBET, 4032 High St., Everett, Washington.

To do any kind of work, or to play for that matter, is next to impossible if you are suffering from some form of female trouble. It may cause your back or your legs to ache, it may make you nervous and irritable. You may be able to keep up and around, but you do not feel good.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for women. It is especially adapted to relieve the cause of the trouble and then these annoying pains, aches and "no good" feelings disappear.

It has done this for many, many women; why not give it a fair trial now.

Ramsey Milholland

By BOOTH TARKINGTON

Copyright by Doubleday, Page &amp; Company

OUT WALKING.

Synopsis.—With his grandfather, small Ramsey Milholland is watching the "Decoration Day Parade" in the home town. The old gentleman, a veteran of the Civil war, endeavors to impress the youngster with the significance of the great conflict, and many years afterward, Ramsey is not distinguished for remarkable ability, erudition, "resolutions" and German. In sharp contrast to Ramsey's backwardness is the precocity of little Dora Yocum, a young lady whom in his bitterness he denounces as "Teacher's Pet." In high school, where he and Dora are classmates, Ramsey continues to feel that the girl delights to manifest her superiority, and the vindictiveness he generates becomes alarming, culminating in the resolution that some day he will "show" her. At a chess picnic Ramsey is captured and taken away by Milha Ruel, the chess beauty, and endures the agonies of his first love.

CHAPTER V.

The next morning Ramsey came into his father's room while Mr. Milholland was shaving, an hour before church time, and it became apparent that the son had something on his mind, though for a while he said nothing.

"Did you want anything, Ramsey?"

"Well—"

"Didn't want to borrow my razors?"

"No, sir."

Mr. Milholland chuckled. "I hardly supposed so seriously! Shaving is a great pleasure and the longer you keep away from it the better. And when you do, you let my razors alone, young fellow!"

"Yes, sir." (Mr. Milholland's razors were safe. Ramsey had already achieved one of his own, but he practiced the art in secret.)

"What is it you really want, Ramsey?"

"I guess I don't want anything."

"Money?"

"No, sir. You gave me some Friday."

Mr. Milholland turned from his mirror and looked over the edge of a towel at his son. In the boy's eyes there was such a dumb agony of interrogation that the father was a little startled.

"Why, what is it, Ramsey? Have you—"

He paused, frowning and wondering. "You haven't been getting into some mess you want to tell me about, have you?"

"No, sir."

His tone was meek, but a mute distress lurked within it, bringing to the father's mind disturbing suspicions, and foreshadowings of indignation and of pity. "See here, Ramsey," he said, "if there's anything you want to ask me, or to tell me, you'd better out with it and get it over. Now, what is it?"

"Well—it isn't anything."

"Are you sure?"

Ramsey's eyes fell before the severe and piercing gaze of his father. "Yes, sir."

Mr. Milholland shook his head doubtfully; then, as his son walked slowly out of the room, he turned to complete his toilet in a somewhat uneasy frame of mind. Ramsey had undoubtedly wanted to say something to him and the boy's expression had shown that the matter in question was serious, distressing, and, it might be, critical.

In fact it was—to Ramsey. Having begun within only the last few hours to regard inbredness as of vital importance, and believing his father to be possessed of the experience and authority lacking in himself, Ramsey had come to get him to settle a question which had been upsetting him badly, in his own room, since breakfast. What he wanted to know was: Whether it was right to wear an extra handkerchief showing out of the coat breast-pocket or not, and, if it was right—ought the handkerchief to have a colored border or to be plain white? But he had never before brought any such perplexities to his father, and found himself too diffident to set them forth.

However, when he left the house a few minutes later, he boldly showed an inch of purple border above the pocket; then, as he saw himself about to encounter several old lady pedestrians, he blushed and thrust the handkerchief down into deep concealment. Having gone a block further, he pulled it up again; and so continued to operate this badge of fashion, or unfashion, throughout the morning, and suffered a great deal thereby.

Meantime, his father, rather relieved that Ramsey had not told his secret, whatever it was, dismissed the episode from his mind and joined Mrs. Milholland at the front door, ready for church.

"Where's Ramsey?" he asked.

"He's gone ahead," she answered, buttoning her gloves as they went along. "I heard the door quite a little while ago. Perhaps he went over to walk down with Charlotte and Vance. Did you notice how neat he looks this morning?"

"Why, no, I didn't; not particularly. Does he?"

"I never saw anything like it before," said Mrs. Milholland. "He only has three neckties, but I saw him several times in each of them. He must have kept changing and changing. I wonder—"

"I'm glad he's begun to take a little care of his appearance at last. I'll have to take a look at him and give him a word of praise. I suppose he'll be in the pew when we get there."

But Ramsey wasn't in the pew; and Charlotte, his sister, and her husband, who were there, said they hadn't seen anything of him. It was not until the members of his family were on their way home after the services that they caught a glimpse of him.

They were passing a church a little distance from their own; here the congregation was just emerging to the open, and among the sedate, throng descending the broad stone steps appeared an unaccompanied Ramsey—and a red, red Ramsey he was when he beheld his father and mother and sister and brother-in-law staring up at him from the pavement below. They were kind enough not to come to an absolute halt, but passed slowly on, so that he was just able to avoid parading up the street in front of them.

In hushed whispers, Mrs. Milholland chided her husband for an exclamation he had uttered. "John! On Sunday! You ought to be ashamed."

"I couldn't help it," he exclaimed. "Who on earth is his clinging vine? Why, she's got lavender tops on her shoes and—"

"Don't look round!" she warned him sharply. "Don't—"

"Well, what's he doing at a Baptist church? What's he getting at, his handkerchief about? Why can't he walk like people? Does he think it's obligatory to walk home from church anchored arm-in-arm like Sweden on a Sunday Out? Who is this cow-eyed fat girl that's got him, anyhow?"

"Hush! Don't look round again, John."

"Never fear!" said her husband, having disabeyed. "They've turned off; they're crossing over to Ballard street. Who is it?"

"I think her name's Rust," Mrs. Milholland informed him. "I don't know what her father does. She's one of the girls in his class at school. It would be pleasant if he'd taken a fancy to someone whose family belongs to our own circle."

"Taken a fancy!" he echoed, hooting. "Why, he's terrible! He looked like a red-gilted goldfish that's stopped itself out of the bowl. Why, he—"

"I say I wish if he felt that he had to take girls anywhere," said Mrs. Milholland, with the primmest air of speaking to the point—"if this sort of thing must begin, I wish he might have selected some nice girl among the daughters of our own friends, like Dora Yocum, for instance."

Upon the spot she began to undergo the mortifications of a mother who has expected her son, just out of infancy, to look about him with the eye of a critical matron of forty-five. Moreover, she was indiscreet enough to express her views to Ramsey, a week later, producing thus a scene of useless gentry and no little sound.

"I do think it's in very poor taste to see so much of any one girl, Ramsey," she said, and, not heeding his protest that he only walked home from school with Milha, "about every other day," and that it didn't seem any crime to him just to go to church with her a couple of times, Mrs. Milholland went on: "But if you think you really must be dangling around somebody quite this much—though what in the world you find to talk about with this funny little Milha Rust your poor father says he really cannot see—and of course it seems very queer to us now when your mind ought to be entirely on your studies, and especially with such an absurd looking little thing—"

"No, you must listen, Ramsey, and let me speak now. What I meant was that we shouldn't be quite so much distressed by your being seen with a girl who dressed in better, taste and seemed to have some notion of refinement, though of course it's only natural she wouldn't, with a father who is just a sort of ward politician, I understand, and a mother we don't know, and of course shouldn't care to. But, oh, Ramsey! If you had to make yourself so conspicuous why couldn't you be a little bit more fastidious? Your father wouldn't have minded nearly so much if it had been a self-respecting, intellectual girl. We both say that if you must be so ridiculous at your age as to persist in seeing more of one girl than another, why, oh, why, don't you go and see some really nice girl like Dora Yocum?"

Ramsey was already dangerously dispirited, as an effect of the earlier part of her discourse, and the word "fastidious" almost exploded him; but upon this climax, "Dora Yocum," he blew up with a shattering report and, leaving fragments of incoherence ricocheting behind him, fled shuddering from the house.

For the rest of the school term he walked home with Milha every afternoon and on Sundays appeared to have become a resolute Baptist. It was supposed (by the interested members of the high-school class) that Ramsey and Milha were "engaged." Ramsey sometimes rather supposed they were himself, and the dim idea gave him a sensation partly pleasant, but mostly apprehensive; he was afraid.

Evening After Evening They Walked and Walked and Walked.

He was afraid that the day was coming when he ought to kiss her.

CHAPTER VI.

Vacation, in spite of increased leisure, may bring inconvenience to people in Ramsey's straits but not uncommon condition. At home his constant air was that of a budgeted captive platonically silent under injustice; and he found it difficult to reply calmly when asked where he was going—an inquiry addressed to him, he asserted, every time he touched his cap, even to hang it up!

The amount of evening walking he did must also have been a trial to his nerves, on account of fatigue, though the ground covered was not vast. Milha's mother and father were friendly people, but say no reason to "move out of house and home," as Mr. Rust said, when Milha had "callers"; and on account of the intimate plan of their small dwelling a visitor's only alternative to spending the evening with Mr. and Mrs. Rust as well as with Milha, was to invite her to "go out walking."

Evening after evening they walked and walked and walked, usually in company—at perhaps the distance of half a block—with Albert Paxton and Sadie Clews, though Ramsey now and then felt disgraced by having fallen into this class; for sometimes it was apparent that Albert casually had his arm about Sadie's waist. This alarmed Ramsey somewhat, but terrified him more. He didn't know how such matters were managed.

Usually the quartet had no destination; they just went "out walking" until ten o'clock, when both girls had to be home—and the boys, too, but never admitted it. On Friday evenings there was a "public open-air concert" by a brass band in a small park, and the four were always there.

Ramsey knew Milha and fate steps in to separate them and "everything's all over."

SCIENCE ON FARM

Agriculturist of Today Must Know Business Thoroughly.Canadian Tillers of the Soil Have Proved That Old Days of Hazard
Methods Have Gone.

Agriculture in Canada has the status of a profession which both its high standard of operation and the prime place it occupies in national life justify. The days when land was casually tilled and farmed without any intelligent understanding of agricultural processes are going with the dwindling availability of the land, and rapidly passing is the epoch of the destruction of soil values, and the abandonment of farms which have been rendered unproductive. Clearer and clearer has become the realization that farming is a specialized profession requiring special training, and in the place of this spoliation there is an intelligent system of crop rotation, preservation of the virtue of the land, a discovery of the ability of the farmer's calling and a determination to secure and achieve the best possible in everything.

The Education of the Farmer.

Agricultural colleges, experimental farms, government literature, railway propaganda, all in an appreciation of the national benefits which accrue, contribute to the education of the farmer who, if he starts out in ignorance, speedily discovers the futility and profitlessness of continuing in this state. It is only of comparatively recent years that farming in Canada has become the comprehensive and exhaustive study it is and its tenets have been so widely absorbed, and older farmers who have followed haphazard methods or systems scientifically unsound are gradually forced from necessity into an intelligent study and application of the profession.

This brings us to the city man who is anxious to leave his old life for the greater freedom of the country and take a farm for himself, and, foregoing holding good, he need not follow far behind the older farmer if he take up the study of his work seriously, bring energy and intelligence to bear upon a following out of the systems of experienced and successful agriculturists, and utilize the results of the expert investigation and research the Dominion places at his disposal. The whole country is working for him and the novice has almost an equal opportunity with the farmer of a lifetime.

A census of Canadian farmers would probably show that fully one-half are not farmers' sons and were not brought up to the life of the farm. Yet none would criticize Canada's farmers on the score of poor farming methods to general the excellence of "user" crops with international hours and the universal demand for their livestock products refuting this effectively. Significant is it, too, that practically all the farmers who have achieved the most signal honors at international farming competitions have not been lifelong farmers, but city men who, making the land after reaching maturity without the remotest previous knowledge of agricultural activities, have through intelligent study and close application of the best farming methods surpassed the efforts of those agriculturists who have continued doing things on the farm in the way their fathers used to do them.

SUNDAY SERVICES:

Sunday School ..... 9:45
Morning Service ..... 11:00
Epworth League ..... 7:00
Evening Service ..... 7:45

Seldom does one get such a vivid view of the other side of the world as was given here last Sunday morning and evening by Dr. Behnd Oscar Peterson, who is home on furlough from the Philippine Islands where he has been a district superintendent for many years.

Both addresses were packed full of the most intensely interesting and vital information, and were worth untold values in helping all present to become more fully world-citizens. This sort of addresses are a great power for real liberal education, help in very large measure to foster good will and love among all races of men, and awaken more fully those deep longings for the full coming of the Kingdom of God which result in enlarged service and sacrifice for the Kingdom.

There is no finer set of slides anywhere to illustrate the scenery and life of the Philippines than those shown by Dr. Peterson Sunday evening. Everybody was enthusiastic over them.

"Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy." This is God's word, and no man or woman, boy or girl can pass by this commandment lightly without suffering very serious consequences. The prosperity of every community depends more on keeping God's laws than on all other things put together. This is set forth and shown with perfect clearness by the greatest financial experts in the world.

No one could hear the perfectly captivating descriptions of what the church is doing for the people of the Philippine Islands as set forth by Dr. Peterson Sunday without a great joy of thankfulness if he had a part in bringing all this immeasurable blessing to his brother men on the other side of the world.

It was shown, however, that there are some very serious situations now over there, due entirely to the lack of money which has been pledged for the centenary in this country and has not been paid. This makes it very necessary that every subscriber to the centenary in America pay all due to date on his or her subscription at the earliest possible moment, and that every member and friend of the church and of Christ shall do his or her share in the generous support of the great missionary program of the church in all the world, including this wonderful field of the Philippines, where such large numbers have found Christ in the few years of our work there and where the very heart life of the archipelago is being so rapidly transformed by the religion of Christ.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

Contentment isn't a matter of geography, and it is seldom a good plan to go away from home in search of happiness. One can't purchase happiness, or find it at the end of a rainbow. If one doesn't contrive happiness out of his own cosmos he will never know what happiness is.—Robert Quillen.

SEASONABLE DISHES

If one has never eaten carrot salad made by grating a carrot or two and a stalk or two of celery through the meat grinder and mixing with a few nuts and a good salad dressing, there is something yet to try.

Pea Soup.—A good pea soup is one which it is hard to equal in tastiness and wholesomeness. Take one-half cupful of dried peas soaked at least twelve hours, cook until tender, then put them through a sieve. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter or pork drippings in a saucepan, add two tablespoonfuls of flour and cook a few minutes, then add one quart of milk. Add one teaspoonful of salt, a little chopped onion or onion juice, one-half teaspoonful of celery leaves powdered, and one-eighth of a teaspoonful of pepper.

Peanut Fondue.—Grind through the meat grinder one cupful of peanuts carefully shelled and the brown skin removed, add one cupful of soft bread crumbs, one and two-thirds of a cupful of milk, one and one-half teaspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper. Mix well, then stir in the white of an egg beaten stiff. Turn into a buttered baking dish and bake in a moderate oven for one-half hour.

Peanut Dumplings.—Melt three tablespoonfuls of butter, add three tablespoonfuls of flour and cook until well blended, then add two cupfuls of water, salt and pepper and cook until it thickens, then add three cupfuls of milk and one-quarter of a cupful of ground peanuts. When it boils drop in the dumplings and cook covered from ten to twenty minutes, according to the size of the dumplings. Use any good dumpling recipe.

Graham Muffins.—Take one cupful each of graham flour, wheat flour and sour cream. Add one teaspoonful of sugar, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt and one-quarter teaspoonful of soda. Mix the dry ingredients. Add the sour cream into which the soda has been stirred. Beat thoroughly and bake in gem pans in a quick oven. Serve hot.

PRODUCERS OF HOME ECONOMY

ANTIOCH BEST flour is made from the wheat you see growing in the field of our own country.

This wheat is grown by our farmers, who know how to harvest and deliver it to our mill door in the most perfect condition.

Our miller takes the golden wheat, puts it through the cleaning, conditioning, and grinding process, and the result is ANTIOCH BEST flour.

In addition to ANTIOCH BEST flour, this wheat yields two products called Bran and Middlings. ANTIOCH BEST Bran and Middlings are bought by the farmer for his cows in order that he may be able to furnish the rich milk that, together with the delicious bread, made from ANTIOCH BEST flour, makes that nourishing bread and milk for the kiddies.

When you buy a sack of ANTIOCH BEST flour you are making a market for your farmer friend's wheat, and you are helping him secure the feed he needs for his cows, which in return give the wonderful milk that, together with ANTIOCH BEST bread, is the most nourishing and economical food for your family.

You get the best food for the smallest amount of money when you buy ANTIOCH BEST flour, and you help keep the Horn of Plenty filled. The farmer, you, and our mill are getting all the value without paying needless freight charges.

ANTIOCH BEST flour is a home economy flour. Buy ANTIOCH BEST flour from your grocer or from our mill direct.

Wilmot Wins Two

The Wilmot base ball team won two hard fought victories this past week. Tuesday they met the Burlington team on their own grounds and Edgar won his own game by driving in a run in the sixth inning. He came back at Burlington and pitched a wonderful game, striking out fourteen men and allowing four scattered hits. He was ably supported by his own team mates, especially Nelson, the catcher, who made several sensational catches of foul balls. Boyle played a star game in the field knocking several hard chances and getting his men each time.

Sunday our team went to McHenry and defeated them in a hard hitting contest. Wilmot grabbed two runs in first inning on clean hitting and added three more in the fourth. With a five run lead to work on Edgar eased up and McHenry pushed across two runs. Wilmot scored at will in practically every inning thereafter and the game closed with the score of 10 to 7 in our favor. Boyle lead the hitting with four hits. Moricelo and Hoffman also starred at bat.

Neither Burlington or McHenry had been defeated in a game this season. Sunday all roads will lead to Wilmot as the State Line team comes to our home park and the game, June 11, will be hotly contested. State Line so far has not met defeat, and the biggest game of the season is promised for Sunday.

LICE AND MITES

Beginning about the first of June a flock of hens usually will lay fewer eggs each week until production finally ceases in October or November. From the standpoint of profitable egg production the poultryman's problem is to delay as long as possible this inevitable drop in egg yield. One important factor in this connection is the control of lice and mites. As hot weather approaches these little parasites multiply very rapidly and, if nothing is done to get rid of them, will prevent any flock from making a profitable showing.

There are many kinds of lice to be found on hens but fortunately their habits are so nearly alike that, in practice, one method of treatment can be used to control them all. Ordinary lice remain on the hen all the time and any substance used to kill them must be applied to the hen. Spraying the chicken house will not kill lice. One of the simplest and quickest methods of treating hens for lice is to use a mixture of mercurial ointment and vaseline. Have the drugist mix these in equal parts by weight. Treat the entire flock at one time. Apply to each hen a small quantity of the ointment—perhaps the size of a kernel of corn—rubbing in on the skin at a point about one inch below the vent. Care should be taken not to leave much of the ointment clinging to the feathers as it is poisonous if taken internally. The effect of the mercury will remain long enough to destroy any lice which hatch from eggs that may be present at the time the treatment is given. Three or four similar applications a year should keep hens reasonably free from lice. This ointment should not be used on setting hens as the mercury will prevent eggs from hatching. Lice powder is the only safe thing to use on setting hens.

Perhaps the cheapest and most satisfactory lice powder is sodium fluoride. This may be applied by the ordinary "pinch method" in which a hen is held by the feet head downward and the powder worked in among the feathers on all parts of the body. Another satisfactory method for warm weather is to dissolve sodium fluoride in water at the rate of one ounce to a gallon. Dip each hen in the solution for a half minute after which press surplus water out of the feathers and release the hen. It is important that a bright warm day be chosen for this treatment.

In controlling mites on the other hand, we have to deal with what is known as an intermittent parasite. These pests remain in cracks and crevices around the roosts and dropping boards during the day come out in force only at night. They crawl up on the hens and suck blood until they are fully gorged. They then return to the underside of the roosts and other inconspicuous places to remain through the day. If unchecked they may easily increase to such large numbers as to kill setting hens. It is evident that a hen cannot be expected to lay many eggs under such difficulties.

The time to fight mites is during the day while they are in clusters under the roosts and dropping boards. Some strong contact spray must be used, such as cresote, rude carbolic acid, concentrated lime sulphur, or any of a number of patent coal tar disinfectants or stock dips. Spray or paint thoroughly the roosts and roost supports. Repeat as often as mites are found.

Printed in furtherance of the agricultural extension act, May 6, 1914.—W. F. Handschin, Vice President.

Ask Lower Grain Freight Rates
The brief of the Illinois Agricultural association asking of the interstate commerce commission for the farmers of Illinois the lower freight rates on grain, grain products and hay in carloads now in effect in western states has been filed. It may be several months before a decision is made.

The I. A. A. has been working on the case for several months. It is the contention of the I. A. A. that Illinois, as one of the greatest of grain producing states, should have the same low rates granted on January 1 to western states.

The brief containing the arguments of the farmers' association was gotten up after the research and investigation of months and presents the testimony of farmer witnesses, of statistics and of other material.

FAVOR AREA PLAN IN TESTING FOR T. B.

Representatives of the Illinois Agricultural association and of most of the live stock and dairy farm bureaus in the state were present at a meeting in Springfield Tuesday of this week, at which the area test for tuberculosis in Illinois was approved.

The conference was called by B. M. Davison, director of agriculture, and F. A. Laird, state veterinarian. A large delegation of live stock producers, veterinarians and representatives from several breed associations were present.

Motion Made
The following motion was made and carried as a recommendation to the division for consideration:

"That the test on the stuff be not required and that the branding with the letter 'F' be done only in case it is found by investigation to be practicable."

Approve Area Plan

The matter of area testing was discussed at length and the department presented to the conference the question of the advisability of area testing and whether or not it was the proper thing in the face of the fact that money in such an instance would be used by certain portions of the state to the disadvantage of other portions.

Dr. Kiernan, of Washington, made a very illuminating talk, revealing the growing inclination on the part of the public in favor of area testing and urging that the officials of the state of Illinois look favorably on such a proposition.

The conference voiced its approval of the area method of testing and recommended that the appropriations for indemnity be divided in a proportion of 75 to 25, 25 per cent of the money to be used in general testing; 75 per cent of the money to be prorated among counties inaugurating this method of testing according to the county appropriation made or according to the cattle population of that particular county.

It was further recommended that all counties wishing to inaugurate area testing in the state of Illinois for the fiscal year 1922 must have their application on file with Dr. J. J. Lintner, federal inspector in charge of tuberculosis eradication in Illinois, Chicago, not later than June 20, 1922.

A great deal of interest was shown in these matters by all organizations represented, as well as other members of the conference who were farmers or feeders in the state.

GUARDS WOOL FROM MOTHS

New Preparation Said to Preserve the Fabric From Depredations of the Pests.

A preparation has been discovered in Europe which, it is claimed, makes wool immune from the ravages of moths. It is in the form of a powder, which, before it is applied, is mixed in water with a small quantity of sulphuric acid for all-wool goods, formal acid being used for half-wool.

The wool itself is said not to be affected by the application, and only a few colors, very slightly. In case no alkalies are brought into contact with it the wool remains moth-proof when washed. Tests made with two pieces of wool cloth exactly alike, in which moth eggs were placed, resulted, in the course of six months, in the entire disappearance of the untreated fabric, whereas the wool which had been treated remained intact.

NATURALLY OBJECT OF ENVY

After All, What Is Power and Wealth Compared With Quality That Vincent Possessed?

Vincent wanted fame more than anything else when he was a young man, and he bent all his energies to attaining it; but though it came to many of his friends it passed him by.

Later, he thought that, after all, he would rather have money, for money could buy almost anything, but every venture that promised success turned out to be a failure. He became somewhat bitter, for money seemed to come of itself to others.

He had many friends who held positions, titles, and in some cases almost the country, in their power. He looked on it in envy, for though he tried with every power within him, he could not make others follow, and his friends seemed to do it easily and naturally.

He hated women. But they followed him around. Everywhere he went some woman was sure to dog his footsteps. And all the other men, who won other things in life, looked on in envy at the ease with which he won them.—Katherine Negley in Judge.

To please others an artist must first please himself—but he must be hard to please.

U. S. ACTS TO HALT MERGER

Trade Body Responds to Resolution Sponsored by La Follette.

HEARING SET FOR JULY 24

Federal Trade Commission Issues Citation Against Bethlehem and Lackawanna Steel Corporations—To Test Legality of Merger.

Washington, June 7.—The government took its first step toward putting a possible check on the big steel consolidations, now in the making, which have been described in the senate as constituting the formation of "a second steel trust."

Acting in response to a resolution sponsored by Senator La Follette (Rep.) of Wisconsin, the federal trade commission issued a citation against the Bethlehem and Lackawanna Steel corporations' merger which is now virtually completed, and charged that the combination will stifle competition and contains dangerous tendencies in restraint of trade and commerce.

"Of course," said the commission's letter, transmitting the complaint of the senate, "the issue of the complaint is merely the institution of formal proceedings to test the legality of the proposed merger."

July 24 was named as the date on which a hearing will be held here.

With regard to the proposed merger of the Midvale, Republic, Inland companies and the formation of the "North American Steel company," the company stated that the tentative arrangements have been completed toward the project, but the actions of the three companies have not advanced far enough toward completion to reveal sufficient facts upon which action can be taken.

The commission's citation against the Bethlehem-Lackawanna merger set forth that the consolidation would give it control in excess of 22 per cent of all the steel mills produced in the United States, 33 1/2 per cent of all the mills produced east of Ohio and north of the Potomac river, 26 per cent of all long angled splices bars and other rail accessories produced in the United States, 39 per cent of all rail accessories produced east of Ohio and north of the Potomac, besides "very substantial percentages" of other crude and finished iron and steel products made in the United States.

Furthermore, the commission set forth, the combination constitutes an attempt to monopolize interstate trade and commerce in many sections, and particularly in the New England states, New York, New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania.

Two dozen smaller steel companies, all subsidiaries of either the Bethlehem or Lackawanna companies, are named in the commission's citation.

The Bethlehem corporation, the complaint says, owns the controlling interest in the Bethlehem Steel Bridge corporation of Delaware, the Cornwall Ore Banks corporation of Pennsylvania, the Bethlehem Steel Mines company of New York, Pennsylvania Coal company of Delaware, Pennsylvania Coal corporation of Pennsylvania, Bethlehem Mines corporation of Delaware, in addition to various other corporations engaged in ship building and transportation.

The Lackawanna's subsidiaries were named as follows:

Lackawanna Bridge Works corporation, New York; Sunday Lake Iron company, Michigan; Brotherhood Iron Milling company, Michigan; Witherbee Sherman & Co., New York; Hobart Iron company, Minnesota; Corbitt Iron company, Minnesota; Verona Mining company, Michigan; Odanah Iron company, Wisconsin; Hoyt Mining company, Minnesota; Negahi Mine company, Ohio; Lackawanna Coal and Coke company, Pennsylvania; Ellsworth Colliers company, Pennsylvania; Lackawanna Steel company of New Jersey.

The commission has been engaged in an investigation of the mergers for more than a year, it was disclosed.

SHRINERS' LIQUOR IS SEIZED

Milwaukee Prohibition Agents Get About $10,000 Worth of Booze From Baggage Car.

Milwaukee, June 7.—Liquors estimated to be worth $10,000 and made up of whiskey, gin, vermouth and rare wines, which were stored in a baggage car to be attached to a Chicago & Northwestern special train to take 1,000 Shriners to California on a convention trip, were pounced upon by federal prohibition agents.

But in serious cases he calls in the Specialist. Why? He knows as every Mother knows, or ought to know, that Baby is just a baby, needing special treatment, special remedies.

Can a Mother be less thoughtful? Can a Mother try to relieve Baby with a remedy that she would use for herself? Ask yourself; and answer honestly!

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

The False and the True.

Advertising by the use of large space, the expenditure of huge sums of money have placed on the market, have put in your home, perhaps, many articles that today have been discarded, as you will readily admit.

Do you recall anything that has more modestly appealed to the public than has Fletcher's Castoria: modest in all its claims, pleading at all times—and truthfully—for our babies?

The big splash, the misleading claims may win for a time, but the honest truth-telling advertiser is like the old story of the tortoise that beat the hare.

Mothers everywhere, and their daughters, now mothers, speak frankly, glowingly, enthusiastically in praise of Fletcher's Castoria. Speak of it lovingly as a friend that has brought comfort, cheer and smiles to their little one.

To them: to these true mothers no argument can induce them to set aside their bottle of Castoria, their old friend, that they might try even another and unknown remedy for babies. Then, would YOU think of going to YOUR OWN medicine chest to find relief for Baby's troubles? Can you not separate the false from the true?

SWAMP-ROOT FOR KIDNEY AILMENTS

There is only one medicine that really stands out pre-eminent as a medicine for curable ailments of the kidneys, liver and bladder.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root stands the highest for the reason that it has proven to be just the remedy needed in thousands upon thousands of distressing cases. Swamp-Root makes friends quickly because its mild and immediate effect is soon realized in most cases. It is a gentle, healing vegetable compound.

Start treatment at once. Sold at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

For Falling Hair. "My hair is falling out," admitted the timid man to the chemist's assistant. "Can you recommend something to keep it in?"

"Certainly," replied the obliging young man, who had only recently left school. "Here is a nice cardboard box."—Pearson's Weekly.

Established a Record. An Irishman, who was to return to his native land by a certain steamer, arrived on the pier just as the vessel was starting—in fact, she was already on the move.

Taking a flying leap, he covered the intervening space of six or eight feet at a bound, but tripped on alighting and hit his head, temporarily stunning himself.

When he recovered his senses, the vessel was a couple of hundred yards out at sea. "O' jabsers!" he exclaimed, not realizing what had happened, "what a jump."

Open Season. "Sap is running in the baseball bats," "Been running a long time in the golf clubs."

Next Case. Judge (trying liquor case)—What is the next case? Clerk (absently)—Scotch, your honor.
